THE TERRORS OF BALLOONING.

A Woman's Exciting Fall Through Space and Escape From Death.

Mrs. Carl E. Myers, the parachute jumper, told of an exciting experience of hers at the fair grounds at Ottawa that, as she said, "began like a comedy and nearly ended in a tragedy:

"It was the narrowest escape I've ever had, and incidentally and accidentally the first parachute descent ever made in America. It wasn't a regular parachute either, but I'll tell you about that when I come to it. The occasion was a big fair, and the grounds were packed with people, the biggest and most uncontrollable crowd I have ever seen. We had a funny time getting the balloon to the place. It was brought up on the other side of the river in tow of a locomotive and was to be towed across by a line of canoes paddled by Indians. We got it fastened to the canoes, and it lifted the first three into the air, spilling their occupants out. That was too much, even for aboriginal stolidity. The other Indians decamped in haste.

"They afterward said that if they had to go upward to the Great Spirit they preferred to die first and have the benefit of decent burial. The next move was to fasten the balloon's guy rope to the stern of a small steam tug. The tug started up, a puff of wind lifted the balloon a little, and up came the stern of the boat out of the water. The tug kept on puffing, the screw revolved wildly, and the crowd howled with laughter. It was too ridiculous! It reminded me of a kitten held up in the air by the tail and wildly scratching to get a foothold on the floor beneath.

"Finally, a bigger boat got the big gas bag over safely, but so densely packed was the crowd that I had to walk on the shoulders of the people to the balloon. In their eagerness to get up close the people broke the concentrating ring, which gathers the balloon ropes before they are fastened to the basket, and also tore a big hole in the bag. In view of this, Mr. Myers wanted me to give up the trip, but I insisted on going, and finally fastened the ropes to the basket. The rapidity with which I shot up was alarming, and I was three miles high before I stopped. Then I began to drop pretty fast, but I knew I could stop that when I wanted to, and I felt better. Suddenly I heard a tremendous ripping and tearing sound. The air pressing up as I fell had started the hole made by the crowd and had torn three great rents clear to the top of the bag.

"I began to drop with frightful rapidity, and for a minute I gave myself up for lost and sank down in the basket. Then it flashed into my mind that I still had a chance if I could so turn the balloon as to bring the torn parts underneath, and thus keep some of the gas in the bag. It was a case of working against time, for every second was bringing me nearer to a terrible death. In the one glance that I took downward I could see the earth leaping up, as it seemed, to meet me. I quickly shifted all my sand bags, and to my joy the balloon turned so as to form a sort of parachute, and the speed was greatly decreased. I was still dropping at a dangerous rate, however.

"Looking down below, I saw not far distant a patch of spruce trees. Toward this I directed my fall and managed to land there. Right through the trees I went, breaking every branch that I touched, but the trees saved me, for I landed on the ground badly shaken, but unhurt. I had traveled an actual distance of 13 miles horizontally and three miles downward in five minutes. My fall had been slanting. That was the only time that I ever gave up hope even for a moment."—New York Sun.

A Chinese Columbus.

The belief in a Chinese Columbus was first allowed by scholars only about 50 years ago. The claim is that a Buddhist priest in the fifth century crossed the Pacific to the continent and returned, making a written report of his discovery. The report still exists. It was translated into French in 1791 by M. de Guignes. It gives a narrative of a voyage eastward by a priest for 20,000 li, where he found a country which he named Fusang. People similar to the Indians were described as well as American plants. The only doubt about the matter is as to the distance meant by 20,000 li. The priest may have reached only some island in the Pacific ocean. —San Francisco Chronicle.

A Bonaparte Letter.

A German newspaper states that the original sketch of the letter of Napoleon I which he wrote in 1815 to the prince regent, demanding permission to make his home in England, is in the hands of a resident of Strasburg. It is entirely in the emperor's own hand, full of erasures and alterations and belongs to a descendant of the courier of General Gourgaud, who made the clean copy of it for transmission.

Refined.

Mrs. Inn-Tents—Our ancestors came over in the Trailing Arbutus, you know.

Uncle George—The Trailing Arbutus? What the—oh, I see! You mean the Mayflower.

Mrs. Inn-Tents—Yes, but Mayflower is so horridly vulgar!—Boston Transcript.

England's Patron Saint.

St. George, the patron saint of England, was born at Lydda, but brought up in Cappadocia. He was a tribune in the reign of Diocletian, and being a man of great courage was a favorite, but as he complained to the emperor of his severities toward the Christians and argued in their defense he was put in prison and beheaded April 23, 302. St. Jerome mentions him in one of his "Martyrologies," and in the following century there were many churches named to his honor. In regard to his connection with England, Ashmole, in his "History of the Order of the Garter," says that King Arthur in the sixth century placed the picture of St. George on his banners, and Selden tells us he was patron saint of England in the Saxon times.

It is quite certain that the council of Oxford in 1222 commanded his festival to be observed in England as a holiday of lesser rank, and in 1330 he was adopted as the patron of the Order of the Garter. The dragon slain by St. George is simply a common allegory to express the triumph of the Christian hero over evil, which John the Evangelist beheld under the image of the dragon. Gibbon, in his "Decline and Fall," asserts that the patron saint of England was George of Cappadocia, the turbulent Arian bishop of Alexandria, but the character of this assertion has been fully disproved by Papebroch, Milner and others.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Trousers In History.

Somebody has discovered that even men's trousers have a history. Miss Celia Logan holds that the fig leaf developed successively into the bearskin, tunic, tights, knee breeches and trousers. The truth probably is that trousers were first introduced as a brilliant discovery by some ancient. In fact, it is almost certain that trousers were first worn as a special form of costume by persons who rode horseback. When they got off the horse, they resumed their flowing robes. It was soon found that trousers were better adapted than togas for quick movement of the legs, and when the barbarians overran Rome their legs were incased in trousers.

In the pictures by Roman artists of these conquerors (in which there is probably no effort at flattery) the trousers are represented as most unbecoming garments, being very wide about the knees and gathered at the ankles. The rest of their clothing was also ungainly and consisted of shirts, easy boots and perhaps a scanty mantle on the shoulders. It is difficult to understand why such a hideous costume was worn. Even that of Robinson Crusoe, whose opportunities for making himself beautiful were limited, was elegant in comparison.—Philadelphia Times.

Love In a Trolley Car.

A very handsome and stylishly dressed couple got on a car at North and Madison avenues and showed by many tender glances and their total indifference to surroundings that they had brought an immense amount of pent up affection along. At the corner the trolley slipped from the wire, and the car was in almost total darkness. The young man must have thought this was his opportunity, and expecting the usual delay in righting matters he leaned over and kissed the girl. Unfortunately for them the conductor quickly got the pole on the wire again, and ardent love was abashed by the laughing faces of half a dozen other passengers. The man jumped back as the car was again illuminated and even started for the door, but upon second thought resumed his seat. The girl looked as if she would like to sink through the floor. At the next corner both got off.—Baltimore American.

Franklin's Lightning Rod.

James T. Evidge of the Quaker City has been an indefatigable collector of relics of Philadelphia's early history, and his cabinets contain one of the most curious personal collections to be seen. He has a chip from the first millstone in the United States, used on Kitchen street, Wissahickon; a funny old lamp made in Germantown 100 years ago, resembling a combined teakettle and coal scuttle; a piece of Franklin's first lightning rod; shilling scrip printed in 1760 by Franklin and Hall on Rittenhouse's paper; a portion of the old fence still standing on the battlefield of Germantown, riddled by bullets; part of the elm tree that stood on the Chew estate; rusty cannon balls and bullets picked up there, and a host of similar interesting mementos of the colonial and Revolutionary days.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

What She Wanted.

"I want a book," said a timid young woman to a public library attendant, "by that Norweden or Swegian writer—I can't think of his name, but it sounds like Bejabbers-bejabers." After an instant's reflection the clever library attendent vanished among the alcoves and brought the timid young woman "Arne," by Bjornstjerne Bjornson, and it was precisely what she had in her mind.—New York Herald.

ENGLISH HIGH SOCIETY.

Mark Twain Tries His Hand at Solving the Problem of Precedence.

The amusing and puerile problem of precedence in English society is characteristically hit off by Mark Twain in The Century Magazine: Englishmen, says the great humorist, always eat dinner before they go out to dinner, because they know the risks they are running. But nobody ever warns the stranger, so he walks placidly into the trap. Of course nobody was hurt this time, because we had all been to dinner, none of us being a novice except Hastings, and he having been informed by the minister, at the time that he invited him, that in deference to the English custom he had not provided any dinner.

Everybody took a lady and processioned down to the dining room because it is usual to go through the motions, but there the dispute began. The Duke of Shoreditch wanted to take precedence and sit at the head of the table, holding that he outranked a minister who represented merely a nation and not a monarch, but I stood for my rights and refused to yield. In the gossip column I ranked all the dukes not royal, and said so, and claimed precedence of this one.

It couldn't be settled, of course, struggle as we might and did, he finally, and injudiciously, trying to play birth and antiquity and I "seeing" his conqueror and "raising" him with Adam, whose direct posterity I was, as shown by my name, while he was of a collateral branch, as shown by his and by his recent Norman origin, so we all processioned back to the drawing room again and had a perpendicular lunch—plate of sardines and a strawberry, and you group yourself and stand up and eat.

Here the religion of precedence is not so strenuous. The two persons of highest rank chuck up a shilling. The one that wins has first go at his strawberry, and the loser gets the shilling. The next two chuck up, then the next two, and so on. After refreshment tables were brought, and we all played cribbage, sixpence a game. The English never play any game for amusement. If they can't make something or lose something—they don't care which—they won't play.

The Origin of the Umbrella.

Our name for the umbrella, being obviously taken from the Italian ombrello, naturally refers us to Italy as the source from which we have derived that useful article. If we had obtained it intermediately from France, we would doubtless have taken with it the name of parapluie, which in the present use of the implement is a more expressive and proper name than that of ombrello, which signifies a "little shade" and refers to the original use as a defense against the sun rather than to its present use as a shelter from the rain.

There seems to be no doubt that the umbrella was first introduced into Italy from the east, and from thence found its way into Europe. It seems also that the applicability of the instrument as a defense from rain was quite an afterthought and that it was originally, as in the east, only used to protect the person from the rays of the sun.—Pearson's Weekly.

Originality In Love.

She was romantic and vowed to give her hand and heart to none but the man who should propose in an entirely original way, differing in all particulars from those before.

Years passed, and hundreds—for she was a beauty and an heiress—essayed in vain with all manner of unique phrases.

At last came a manly man, who said simply: "Will you be my wife? You are my first and only love!"

With eager eyes she had looked at him, but as he finished she burst into tears. "Your beginning was entirely original," she sobbed, "but the last sentence has been repeated to me by 41,144 different men and spoils it all!"

She died immediately afterward from a broken heart, and the manly man purchased a lonely island where he could occasionally go to indulge in reflection.—Chicago News.

An Actor's Mistake.

A celebrated French actor came over to England. He had studied our language carefully. His friends were a little anxious about his powers of acquiring our difficult pronunciation, but he said he felt confident that well made up and by gaslight his accent would pass muster. But, alas! he was overhopeful. The crucial evening arrived, and he wanted at the most pathetic moment of the play to exclaim in broken voiced despair: "I shall die! I shall die! There is peace in the grave!" But his histrionic powers carried him away, and he forgot his carefully prepared pronunciation, and in heartbroken tones he sobbed forth: "I shall die! I shall die! There is peas in the gravy!" And then he could not understand why all the theater shouted with laughter.—Lady's Pictorial.

Languages.

It is estimated that since the building of the famous tower of Babel there have been 1,500 distinct languages and 3,500 colloquials, or 5,000 different forms of speech. At the present time 600 of the primary languages are dead, leaving 900 spoken all over the earth, with 2,500 colloquials.—Exchange.

SONOMA DAY.

Sonoma Valley's Olive Oil and Wine.

Other Features of Sonoma's Display at the Midwinter Fair —Hon. J. C. Sims' Address.

At the Midwinter Fair last Saturday Old Sonoma did herself proud. People from every section of the county were present to do honor to the day.

The county's exhibit, while not as good as it ought to be when her varied products are taken into consideration, will compare more than favorably with other sections of the State.

Among the features of the exhibit which attracted the attention of visitors from abroad was Col. Geo. F. Hooper's display of Sonoma Valley's olive oil, which is manufactured and bottled on the Sobre Vista ranch three miles northwest of this city. This display was backed up by the medal which was awarded to Col. Hooper at the Paris Exposition for the purest and best olive oil known in the world. This medal is highly prized by the Colonel, who would not part with it for a small fortune.

The wine display of Gundlach & Co. of Rhine Farm, one mile east of Sonoma, and from other vineyards of the county also won merited praise.

Miss Lizzie Clarke of Glen Ellen, who exhibits some exquisite work in manzanita, also won the encomiums of visitors.

There were gigantic vegetables, tropical and semi-tropical fruits, a a fine display of silk and woolen goods.

A flour mill built by the late Gen. Vallejo of this place in 1844 is one of the relics of by-gone days. The prune model of the Russian river bridge at Healdsburg attracted the attention of everybody.

HON. J. C. SIMS ADDRESS.

The orator of the day was Hon. J. C. Sims. That gentleman, after being introduced to those present, said:

"I rise with diffidence to address this company, sensible as I am that there are gentlemen present more capable of doing so acceptably than I am, and more worthy of the honor conferred on me. It is extremely appropriate that the citizens of a county so prominent and aggressive in the history of our State and so important in its material resources, should here assemble to express their gratification at the magnificent results presented at this exposition, and to extend to all who have had its care and management their most cordial congratulations.

They have added to the honors of our State, and are deserving of the greatest gratitude of the people. We appreciate the words of welcome by the Director General of this Midwinter Fair, and we admire the superb courage, energy and activity of the citizens of this magnificent city of San Francisco; and while we are delighted with the wonderful progress exhibited by the other counties of this State, we are more than pleased at the marked advancement exhibited in our own. It is certain that the World's Fair at Chicago was exceedingly beneficial, but we are more interested in this county exhibit because its effect and influence come directly home to the business and bosoms of the very persons by whom alone it must be carried through.

Every son of Sonoma county, whether it is his birth-place or his abode, may speak of her with honest pride, for it was there that the first steps were taken to found a Republic in California. It was there, first of all, a few gallant pioneers declared their independence of Mexico and raised their flag which bore the typical emblem of the bear under which these pioneers gained their first victory.

Soon after Sloat, in Monterey, raised the American flag and declaired California henceforth a part of the United States. When this news reached Sonoma the bear flag was taken down and the flag of our common country was raised in its place. Col. Jonathan D. Stevenson was one of the early pioneers of Sonoma county. This lamented veteran and many of his regiment have gone to swell the census of God's city beyond the stream of fate, while many are still lingering on the bank, waiting to cross under the shade of the trees planted by their own hands. His most enduring monument is found in the human hearts which swell at the mention of Stevenson's regiment of pioneers.

There were other early residents of Sonoma county whose names have since taken their place in American history where they will live and bloom forever. Tecumseh Sherman, Old Joe Hooker, Persifer F. Smith, S. W. Kearney, General E. O. C. Ord, George Stoneman, Halleck, Freemont and Stone, names which will live in the hearts of men as long as patriotism survives, and while the happiness of mankind is the end and aim of Government.

I do not wish to dwell too long upon the early history of Sonoma county, but my address would be incomplete did I not mention General Mariano Guadalupe Vallejo, the greatest and most brilliant of all the native Californians. If he were here on these grounds today his heart would swell with pride at this evidence of a county's prosperity for which he in life accomplished so much.

While the stranger cannot fail to note the prominence of Sonoma county in the history of our State, he may be none the less interested in her material resources, her industrial development and the progress and improvement which she has made since the days when the hardy pioneers crossed the plains, conquered the mountains and pressed the foot of victorious adventure on our western shore.

Sonoma county has a population of 35,000; the assessed valuation of its property is $32,000,000; it embraces an area of 1,500 square miles, adorned with every flower that can beautify the face of the earth, and enriched with all the grains and fruits that can minister to the wants or gratify man's appetite. Hill and dale, forest and fountain, shady walks, graceful valleys, rich fields with verdant meadows, with numerous streams and water courses rolling through them, forming a landscape such as no eye has never seen since the fall.

"Sweet fields beyond the swelling flood,
Stand dressed in living green."

To justify the claim of the citizens of Sonoma that they have an imperial county they point to its climatic advantages, the inexhaustible fertility of its soil, to its herds and flocks grazing ten months every year in meadows over which winter is but a passing breath, where the seeding time treads upon the heels of the harvist, to the superiority of its vineyards producing annually 3,500,000 gallons of wine, to the annual production of its orchards amounting to over 200,000,000 pounds of dried and green fruit, to the amount and quality of its dairy products shipping 3,200,000 pounds of butter to market every year, to its silk factories, its woolen mills, its blooded live stock, its great redwood timber belt from which is cut annually 60,000,000 feet of the finest lumber in the world, its quicksilver mines in successful operation, its lines of railroad which bear its varied products to a ready market, to its seacoast frontage of seventy miles, which renders a monopoly to transportation impossible, its natural curiosities, among them the Geysers and the petrified forest, its mineral springs celebrated for their medicinal and life-giving qualities, the number and influence of its newspapers, thrifty homes, its palatial residences and its thriving towns.

But while we are proud of the natural advantages and material wealth of our county we feel a greater pleasure and pride in the virtue, intelligence and patriotism of her people. She is devoting her energy and sparing neither effort nor means to educate the public, believing that through her common schools the truth will be learned and the truth will make and keep the people free. Her people are none the less distinguished for their piety, their marks of Chirtianity and their churches and religious institutions.

There the Sabbath of God is kept in its purity, and every Sunday morning the golden benediction of the bells summon the people to the churches of their fathers and ring out in the praise of God and the power of his might.

In conclusion, let me thank you, ladies and gentlemen, for the kindness and attention with which you have listened to me, and allow me to say that while we here rejoice in the evidence of our county's prosperity, we feel the highest gratification and interest in the progress of the other counties of the State, and stand willing to advance the fortune and guard the honor of every portion of this commonwealth of California as long as life shall last.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism, but it can be done if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from Jas. Lambert of New Brunswick, Ill.: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right to-day and would insist on every one who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

A Voice From Watmaugh.

Methinks my pen I'll take in hand,
To show you Watmaugh's got some sand;
And let you know you're apt to lose,
For we'll shut up your worthless crews.

Now, "Puer Altæ" ain't so bad,
For he it is that drove you mad;
Because against him you can't write,
In any shape to win the fight.

Now, to me it don't appear
That the High School need to fear;
For any piece you write for the paper,
Or for any other sort of caper.

For about that invitation,
On which you base your lamentation;
It being unconventional,
I think 'twas not intentional,
That from it you were left.

And you did try to make a squeak,
Looking hard some faults to seek;
But really showing you're a sneak,
By the way and manner in which you speak

Now, I'll tell you a fact as good as law,
There isn't a name like old Watmaugh;
That in a poem would be fitter,
Or come more handy to a poem writer.

So that's the goodly reason why,
(I'm sure no one will this deny),
That we in the invite were addressed,
While Sonoma in the cold was left.

Now, we've said our little say,
But we will write another day;
When we get more classical scholars,
A few more cents and plenty of dollars.

HAYSEED CLASSICAL.

The High School Again.

For these three years that I've been living,
With doubts and fears and many misgivings;
I've rambled around like an American dollar,
But the reckless audacity of the eighth grade scholar
In putting me up as so shallow and daft,
As to write a whole poem with a petty intent,
Is so funny a thing that it makes me laugh

But Sonoma, so so to some future time,
For on you I'm not to waste rhyme;
But San Luis to answer my purpose it is,
And so will I straightway get down to my biz.
This modest young poet, a master at rhyme
Has taken the chance to call me to time;
But ends with saying more writing she declines.

Now, dear San Luis, calling to reason,
Since that article is always in season;
For writing about girls you called us a boy,
'Cause you wrote about both we say you are coy
In looking ahead and seeing the trap.
As we surley would catch you in a nap,
If only of boys your poem mapped.

You said, I said (if I may say it,)
That some of the boys had better been in it;
Now if the poem you'll read again,
You'll find the way it reads will mean,
The boys had best b hind it been,
And in the making shared, Ye ken?

Now I think I'll quit the pen,
Until some other poet ascend.

Constitutional Scrofula Entirely Cured.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen: Wishing to tell what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for us, I will say that 3 years ago we had a beautiful boy born to us. When about six months old he took a sore mouth. Everything that was known as usual remedies in such cases was used. I had two doctors but all to no benefit. At the age of 11 months he breathed his last. Thus we laid in the grave. On Aug. 4, 1891, another boy was born unto us. At the age of two months he became afflicted with the same disease. I believed the boy's trouble was constitutional, and not common sore mouth. I procured a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and commenced to give it regularly to both mother and baby, and occasionly washed his mouth with a syrup of buck brush root. Improvement began at once. We have succeed in eradicating the scrofulous blood from the system and to-day we are blessed with a nice, fat baby boy, eighteen months old. He is the very all life and full of mischief—thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am a minister in the Methodist Protestant church. I am here to back what I say and I am in no way interested in any profit in the matter, except it affords me much pleasure to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all as

TRUSTWORTHY STATEMENTS.

A recent New York dispatch reads:

"James C. H——, a fine looking and apparently healthy man, was observed to stagger while walking on Fifth Avenue this afternoon, and after taking one or two uncertain steps fell to the sidewalk. When picked up he was dead. A physician examined the body and pronounced heart disease the cause of death. A peculiarly sad feature of the case is that Mr. H—— was on his way to Maine, to settle in the home of his boyhood. He had passed the previous ten years in the western mining country, and had amassed a fortune. If YOU have any of the symptoms given in the following testimonials you should lose no time in seeking relief.

From John L. Roberts, Slatington, Pa: "I have suffered with palpitation, irregular pulse, fainting and smothering spells, pain in shoulders, side, and arms for over forty years. For twelve years have been treated without avail by prominent physicians in my neighborhood and in New York. Growing constantly worse, smothering spells followed one another, so my life was often in danger and I needed constant care. As my son had been cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, he sent me three bottles. The first dose gave me instant relief. Before using the last bottle I was completely cured. Although seventy-five years old I feel twenty years younger. I claim my cure to be almost a miracle."

Here is a letter from Mrs. John Kolges, of Cleveland, O.: "I had been troubled with my heart and stomach for years, but for sixteen months had been confined to my bed. I had four of the best doctors in the city, but none of them could benefit the weakness of my heart. I also had dropsy and rheumatism. I never took medicine that relieved me at once as Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure does. I am much stronger. My appetite is splendid. I gain strength with every dose. I have gained more in six weeks from your treatment than in sixteen months from all the doctors."

"Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists. It is safe, effective, agreeable, and does cure." Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

DISASTROUS RUNAWAY.

One Horse Killed and Another Badly Injured.

One of the most disastrous runaways that has taken place in this valley for a long time occurred last Saturday afternoon on the Buena Vista ranch, one mile east of town. A two horse team attached to a light spring wagon took fright at the bellowing of a calf which the owner, B. F. Campbell, and an employee on the ranch were rounding up in a corral. The team being untied, dashed through the corral carrying the gate with them. A little further on they encountered another gate which in its turn was also demolished. The horses ran down the avenue and after proceeding on their mad career for a quarter of a mile they ran against a large oak tree. The animals were hurled to the ground by the suddenness of the shock. One was instantly killed by striking its side against the tree with terrific force and the other had his skull mashed in, while the wagon was badly wrecked. It is thought that the injured horse may recover but he will be rendered useless by his ininjuries. The team was valued at between $250 and $300.

Ireland's Day.

To-day is Ireland's Day at the Midwinter Fair, and the admission to the grounds has been reduced to 25 cents. The San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company this morning and afternoon will sell tickets for San Francisco at half rates, or one fare for the round trip from all points. These tickets will be good to return to points on the main line up to and including Santa Rosa, as well as points on the Sebastopol and Sonoma Valley branches on all trains on Saturday and Sunday, March 17th and 18th, scheduled to such points. For points north of Santa Rosa on the main line, including points on the Guerneville branch, these tickets will be good to return on Saturday and Sunday, March 17th and 18th, on trains scheduled for such points, and also on train leaving San Francisco at 7:40 A. M., on Monday, March 19th.

Fell Twenty-five Feet.

A large work horse belonging to S. Schocken of this place, while standing on the edge of a bank twenty-five feet high, one day last week, suddenly lost his footing and fell headlong to the bottom of the precipice landing square on his back. Strange to say the animal received no serious injuries and aside from being slightly bruised up is as well and strong as ever. If horses were worth anything at the present time that "hoss" would surely have been killed.

St. Francis' Church.

Preparations have been made to render the Easter services unusually impressive. A special choir has been organized and the musical portion of the services promises to be exceptionally fine. Two sermons will be preached during Holy Week, one on Thursday evening at 7:30 and one on Friday evening at the same hour. On Thursday the doctrine of the real presence will be stated and explained. On Friday the Passion will be discussed. Protestants are respectfully invited to attend.

Out for Governor.

State Treasurer J. R. McDonald of Sacramento will be a candidate for Governor before the next Republican State Convention. Mr. McDonald was formerly a resident of Sonoma county, and should he secure the nomination he will undoubtedly carry Old Sonoma by a handsome majority no matter whom his opponent may be, as he has hosts of friends in this section of the State.

Badly Hurt by a Base-Ball.

Lester, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Small, while at play in the public school grounds, last Monday, was struck in the face by a baseball and knocked senseless. One of his eyes was nearly knocked out and his nose badly bruised. At latest accounts the little fellow was doing well and it is not thought that he will lose the sight of the eye.

The City Election.

So far six candidates are out for Town Trustees, three for Marshal, one for Treasurer and one for Clerk. Three days more remains in which to file certificates of nomination with the City Clerk, at the expiration of that time candidates will not be recognized or allowed on the ticket which is now printed at public expense.

J. R. Leppo of Santa Rosa and Wm. Steiger of Petaluma were appointed delegates to the State Convention of Sportsmen to be held in San Francisco April 10th.

The sum of $53.99 was ordered transferred from the Bodega Road Fund to the Freestone Road Fund.

The petition for the formation of Cliff Rock school district was denied.

SATURDAY, March 10th.

County Clerk Wines was instructed to advertise for bids to be received on the 6th of April for the construction of a 120-foot pile bridge, with a fourteen-foot roadway, on the site of the old bridge known as the McCray bridge across Salmon Creek in Bodega road district.

The petition of H. A. Richardson for a private road in the Stewart's Point road district was denied and Treasurer Stofen instructed to return the $50 deposit.

The matter of the proposed bridge across Mayacamus Creek was continued to April 5th.

Bids for raising and repairing the iron bridge across Sonoma Creek on Napa street near Sonoma will be received on the 6th of April.

Chas. Cheney returned home last Saturday after a visit of several days with relatives and friends in the northern part of the county.

The President drinks his breakfast coffee from a cup that is worth $100. The china set of which it is a part was made to order for the White House at a cost of $5,000.

W. H. Masterson, foreman of the Senator Jones ranch, received a telegram last Monday evening announcing the death of his father at Gridley, Sutter county. He left on the Southern Pacific train the following morning to be present at the funeral, which took place Wednesday.

Easter comes very early this year, as it falls on March 25th. It will be nearly 100 years before it falls again so early, the next year being 1951, 2035, 2046, 2057, 2103, 2114, 2125 and 2198. The earliest date upon which Easter can fall is March 22nd, and the last Easters on this date were in the years 1693, 1716 and 1818, but so early an Easter will not come again until 1970.

Many inquiries have been made from time to time as to what has become of the colony of cats owned by the late lamented Mrs. Robert C. Johnson and provided for at her country home near this place. It has been ascertained that they were left to the care of Miss Helen Shellard of San Francisco, who was liberally remembered in Mrs. Johnson's will with the understanding that she was to care and provide for all the felines, which trust she has undertaken. Some weeks ago they were removed from the Johnson place to the home of Miss Shellard on Telegraph Hill, San Francisco, where the colony will be maintained. They are perfect beauties, being fine specimens of the Angora breed, having long white fur and pretty blue eyes.

Dr. Atwood spent several days of the past week in San Francisco.

Once a month the ends of the hair should be cut to remove the forked ends, which stop its growth.

It is estimated that 1,200 Sonoma county people attended the ceremonies at the Midwinter Fair last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase (nee Marie Seipp) are the happy parents of a little son which was born in San Francisco last Sunday.

Mrs. Louis Bieitenbach and little daughter have been the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Boyer of Santa Rosa.

Veilings are now double width and heavier and firmer than formerly. Black with large white dots is the fancy of the moment.

Robert Howe went to Santa Cruz last Monday to attend the funeral of his father-in-law, Mr. Hammond, who died in that place Sunday.

Wm. Sobbe, the gentlemanly freight agent of Glen Ellen, was in town last Wednesday and was warmly greeted by many old friends.

There was a heavy shower of rain last Thursday night, which somewhat interfered with plowing and gardening yesterday. The rain, however, was a beneficial one.

Mrs. Emily Loud of San Francisco has been in Sonoma the past week visiting friends and looking after her property interests on Broadway.

An instrumental and vocal concert and hop will be given at Union Hall the last week in April by Mrs. J. P. Rodgers, assisted by some of the best talent of Petaluma and Sonoma.

Hairs on the chin will disappear if rubbed with a pumice stone which has been dipped in dairy cream or butter. It will take time, but the result is certain success. On no account use vaseline, as this tends the growth of hair.

The application for admission to bail in the Meagher case was taken under advisement by Judge Crawford Tuesday afternoon. He will review the evidence before rendering his decision.—Democrat.

A simple remedy for a rough skin is to first wash the face thoroughly at night, then rub it with about a teaspoonful of cream and let it dry in. The skin will look shiny and feel stiff at first, but in the morning you will be surprised to find how soft the skin will be.

J. F. Meagher, who was wounded at the time his blind wife Nancy Meagher was killed by a midnight assassin, near Petaluma, several months ago, is slowing improving in health. It will probably be some time yet before he will have entirely recovered from his wounds.

Mrs. O. B. Shaw was taken very ill at her home in the southern suburbs of town, last Sunday, and for a time her family were very much alarmed. The prompt medical aid rendered by Dr. Davis, however, soon changed her condition for the better and the patient is now very much improved.

If you have cold chicken, but not enough for a whole meal, chop it fine, heat a cup of cream until boiling hot, stir in a teaspoonful of corn starch, then salt and stir in the chicken, arrange slices of hot, crisp buttered toast on a hot platter and put a heaping tablespoonful of the minced chicken on each side and serve.

An exciting and long-winded runaway took place last Tuesday. The horse attached to Duhring's delivery wagon took fright while standing on First-street West, during the temporary absence of the driver, and ran four or five miles before coming to a standstill. As the runaway neared the bridge which crosses Hooker branch the wagon collided with Henry Castagnassio's vegetable wagon. The force of the collision broke the tugs which held the runaway horse to the wagon and they parted company. The horse then ran a mile or so farther when he was secured. Strange to relate little or no damage was done to either of the wagons.

Rev. R. E. Wenk of San Francisco, a former pastor of the Methodist church of this place, will deliver a lecture next Tuesday evening for the benefit of the church. Mr. Wenk spent some time in Chicago studying the World's Fair and has prepared a very interesting lecture about it. Owing to the financial stringency there has been a shrinkage in the subscriptions given for the improvement of this church and the proceeds of the lecture are to supply the deficiency. The lecture will be given in the church and will commence at 8 o'clock.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1894.

TUNES O' THE BAGPIPES.

Highland Martial Music That Inspires Valor In Sturdy Hearts.

It is not assuming too much to claim for highland music that it has produced tunes more eminently fit for marching than the music of any other nation. Most of us at some time or other have come across a highland regiment on the march. Who does not know the roll of the distant drums, and mingling with it that prolonged drone which gradually resolves itself into some old, familiar tune, composed long ago to celebrate some bloody clan raid, such, for instance, as the pibroch of Donal Dhu?

To the Scotsman there is never any mistaking that sound, and although we may be nineteenth century individuals with tall hats and black coats we can't help going just a little way, and keeping step also. The pulse beats just a little quicker, and despite all cheap sneers the memory of a thousand years is a little more real than might have been expected. If an impartial observer should take such an occasion as this, he will notice that there is a swing and a go about a highland regiment quite peculiar to itself, and due in great measure to the music of the pipes.

The swing of the sporrans and the waving of the kilts may add to the effect, and indeed such a sight would be difficult to beat. But watch the same body of men in tartan trews and white shell jackets, and you will see the same swing. It is not the easy gait of the jack tar when under arms, nor the quick, sharp, precise step of an ordinary line regiment. It is a something born of the music, hard to account for, but nevertheless very apparent.—Chambers' Journal.

Said He Was Dr. Brooks.

When Rev. Dr. William Henry Brooks, secretary of the Episcopal convention of Massachusetts, had his office at St. Andrew's House, Chambers street, two ladies who had made an engagement with Rev. Dr. Phillips Brooks, at that time rector of Trinity, came there just before the appointed time and went up into the guildroom, where Dr. Brooks, the secretary, was writing. He courteously rose and bade the ladies "good morning."

They said to him, "We wish to see Dr. Brooks."

He replied, "I am Dr. Brooks."

Then they said, "We wish to see Rev. Dr. Brooks."

Dr. Brooks replied again, "I am Rev. Dr. Brooks."

Not knowing that there was a Rev. Dr. William Henry Brooks and seeing that the secretary was totally unlike Phillips Brooks—at least in outward form—they thought that the man was not in his right mind. Accordingly they went down stairs without delay and said to some one there: "There is a crazy man writing in the guildroom who says he is Dr. Brooks."

Dr. Brooks enjoyed the joke on himself.—Boston Herald.

Why He Ran.

The grim humor of the camp waged eternal warfare on the general despondency, said General Gordon. On one occasion a prayer meeting was held in camp, and one of the soldiers was called on to pray.

"O Lord," he said, "we are in the midst of a terrible battle and in an awful lot of trouble. We hope you will take a proper view of the matter and give us the victory."

In the midst of a battle the general saw a man running from a very close situation.

"What are you running for?" demanded the disgusted general in a stern voice.

"Golly, general," said the fleeing man, "I'm running because I can't fly."

General Gordon also told an interesting story of how it happened that a Federal soldier bore the last order that he ever sent to his men. "But," he added humorously, "I had to send a private Confederate along to vouch for his veracity."

The Scorpion.

"The principal pest of Mexico," said E. P. Brewer of Central America, "is the scorpion. In damp or wet weather he is omnipotent, and in hotels can be seen to run up and down the walls. He is only about 4 to 6 inches in length and is not particularly repulsive in appearance, but his sting generally results fatally. I was in a hotel at one time where two other salesmen stopped in the same room, and as we went to go to bed I saw the scorpions chasing each other up and down the wall. I called my fellow travelers' attention to them, but they thought that they could protect themselves, and we all went to bed. I put up a shield, as is common in that country, but my friends were not used to this protection, and in the morning the man who thought he was safe was dead. I never go to bed in Mexico without thoroughly protecting every exposed portion of my body."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Alligators.

When first hatched, alligators are about three to four inches long. In a day or two, however, they double their size, and don't need any food to do it on either. They just seem to grow fat on wind. If some naturalist could find out the secret of their living, he would have a regular bonanza. —Florida Times-Union.

A Candied Tale.

"Here," said a Lewiston detective, "is a queer thing to convict a man of burglary with," and he held up the head of a hammer which he had kept in a drawer in his table It was an ordinary hammer head, only the striking end of it was battered in a strange and peculiar way. One side of it was broken off.

"A break was made in a Lewiston home during the winter, and besides a small lot of jewelry a bundle of papers was carried away. The papers were of a private nature and such that the owner desired as much to recover them as he did the jewelry. The robber had entered the house through the kitchen and while picking the lock had set a hammer down in a pan of molasses candy that had been put into the back entry to cool during the night. When he took up the hammer, it had left the imprint of its head in the candy. I saved that pan and kept it on ice all summer in an up town icehouse. The next winter I was in a local junk store and found this hammer in the pocket of a coat in the pile of old clothes. I knew it by the head of it to be the one dropped into the candy pan.

"'Whom did you buy this of?' I asked.

"The dealer happened to remember, and I took the hammer head and went to the man's house. There I found that he had died during the summer, but his widow recognized the hammer. I asked if her husband had left any old letters or papers, and she brought out the lost bundle. She knew nothing about any jewelry, but her husband had left $300. I took the papers to their owner and told him the thief was dead."—Lewiston Journal.

The Sporting Page Cure.

"To a patient afflicted with a certain phase of melancholia I once gave an unusual piece of advice," said an Arch street physician. "I asked him if he ever took any interest in the sporting intelligence presented in the daily papers. He replied in the negative and added that sports of any kind were distasteful to him, and some even abhorrent to the principles instilled into him from early youth. I then told him he was suffering from the effects of dwelling too long on the grave concerns and problems of life, and that if he wished to prolong his years he must take hold of lighter things, and that I knew of no mental diversion so effectual as to take a positive interest in the sporting events of the day—an interest which he might easily create by a little persistent reading of this entertaining branch of news. He followed my advice, his morose and suspicious temper was gradually subdued, and he became as cheerful and companionable a man as I ever knew."—Philadelphia Record.

An Architectural Age of Steel.

The Eiffel tower, built wholly of metal, is an example and a good example of a step in the direction which architects will be driven to follow in future. The great railway stations, exhibition buildings and other structures of steel, concrete, paper and glass which the needs and inventions of our day have called into existence show which way flows the stream of tendency. The new building material has come to stay. In another century houses may not merely be built with steel girders. They may be made of metal frames bolted together and gripping walls of papier mache. Then the age of the tent will return. A man will buy his house from a manufacturer and will hire a site to set it upon. When he moves from one place to another, he will take his home with him. Building leases will die a natural death. Towns will wander about, and a great many curious results will arise.—Pall Mall Gazette.

How Long Can We Remember Voices?

The following is told of the late esteemed minister of Congleton church, Rev. Joseph Moore: As is generally known, Mr. Moore was a friend of Livingstone. On the return to London of the great traveler after an absence of nearly 30 years in Africa, he was visited by Mr. Moore. Having found the address of his old friend, Mr. Moore knocked at the door and inquired of the servant if Mr. Livingstone was at home and was much surprised to hear a voice call out from an upper landing: "Halloa, Moore! Is that you?" It was indeed remarkable that a voice should be recognized in that way after not being heard for about 30 years.—Congleton (England) Chronicle.

'Twould Look Perfectly Awful.

"It would never do for women to be at the head of the government," said Mr. Snaggs.

"Why not, pray?" asked his wife.

"Suppose an unmarried woman were secretary of the treasury when bonds were to be issued."

"Well, suppose that were the case. What of it?"

"How would it look for her to issue a circular headed, 'Proposals invited?'"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

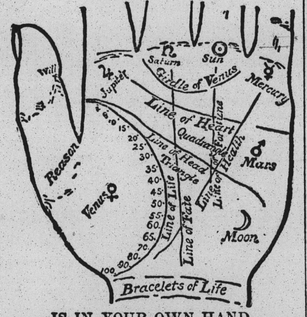
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness: a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondence if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked: keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 15x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $3.00; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the facts, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

STAR, LANE CO., OREGON, Feb. 8th, 1892.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used your KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE for the last twelve years never being without it but a few weeks in that time and I have made several wonderful cures with it. I cured a Curb of long standing. Then I had a four year old colt badly sweenied; tried every thing without any benefit, so I tried your liniment, and in a few weeks he was well and his shoulder filled up all right, and the other, a four year old that had a Thoroughpin and Blood Spavin on the same joint, and to-day no one can tell which leg it was on. These statements can be proven, if necessary; the four year olds are now seven and can be seen any day at Cottage Grove, Or. S. Z. PAXTON.

—Price $1.00 per bottle.—

OUR NEW 1893 FLOWER SEED OFFER.

A Magnificent Collection of FLOWER SEEDS 200 Varieties, FREE!

An Unparalleled Offer by an Old-Established and Reliable Publishing House! The Ladies' World is a large 20-page, 56-column illustrated Magazine for ladies and the family circle. It is devoted to stories, poems, ladies' fancy work, artistic needlework, home decoration, housekeeping, fashions, hygiene, juvenile reading, etiquette, etc. To introduce this charming ladies' paper into 100,000 homes where it is not already taken, we now make the following colossal offer: Upon receipt of only 12 Cents in silver or stamps, we will send The Ladies' World for Three Months, and to each subscriber we will also send FREE and postpaid, a large and magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds, two hundred varieties, including Pansies, Carnations, Asters, Phlox, Balsams, Portulacas, Verbenas, Mignonette, Stocks, Digitalis, Double Zinnia, Pinks, etc., etc. Remember, you receive this entire collection of Flower Seeds, put up by a first-class Seed House and warranted fresh and reliable. No lady can afford to miss this wonderful opportunity. We guarantee every subscriber many times the value of money sent, and will refund your money and make you a present of both seeds and Magazine if you are not satisfied. Ours is an old and reliable publishing house, endorsed by all the leading newspapers. We have received hundreds of testimonials from pleased patrons during the past five years: "I had beautiful flowers from the seeds you sent me two years ago, and from experience know the seeds are exactly as advertised."—Mrs. N. C. Baynin, Dana, Wis. "Myself and friends have sent for various things advertised by you, and have found them to be entirely satisfactory."—M. J. Davis, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher (a regular subscriber), and Grace Greenwood, each ordered our seeds last season. Do not confound this offer with the catchpenny schemes of unscrupulous persons. Write to-day—don't put it off! Six subscriptions and six Seed Collections sent for 60 cents.

SPECIAL OFFER! To any lady sending us 12 cents for above offer, and naming the paper in which she saw this advertisement, we will send free, in addition to all the above, one packet of the celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas, embracing the newest varieties, including Boreatton, Isa, Eckford, Splendor, The Queen, Orange Prize, Apple Blossom, etc. Sweet Peas are the most popular and fashionable bouquet flowers now cultivated, and the Eckford Varieties which we offer, are the largest, finest and most celebrated known. They grow to a height of 6 feet, and produce for three months a continuous profusion of fragrant blooms of the most brilliant coloring.

ANOTHER GREAT OFFER! Upon receipt of Thirty-five Cents (half of regular subscription price) we will send The Ladies' World for One Year, together with our magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds above described, likewise one packet of the extremely admired and lastly celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas.
